

Yes, there is a problem. Depending on how you are checking for deadlock. If you are doing a naive implementation where just the FileLocks are being sent back and forth. If there happens to be two FileLocks locking over the same data segment but for two different files. The program will detect deadlock when there isn't any.